

Ground Rules for all participants in TusLAN at TusCon

<http://www.tuslan.net/>

Rules adapted from LAN Party by William Steinmetz, Copyright © 2004 by Wiley Publishing, Inc., used by permission.

- No one will be allowed to play without signing a liability waiver. While we'll take reasonable precautions to make sure this is a safe LAN party, you are ultimately responsible for everything that happens to you or your equipment here. You must acknowledge that legally before you can set up.
- No one under the age of 18 will be admitted without a signed permission slip. We're sorry, but there are legal issues with minors and we have to ensure that the parents are aware of all potential hazards at this party.
- The LAN party hosts have final say about everything that happens at the event. We can, and will, remove jerks to make things more enjoyable for everyone else. Hopefully, you're not a jerk; if you aren't, you're going to have a great time today.
- No smoking. It's unhealthy, and it irritates many of our players. If you want to smoke, take it outside.
- No drinking. We have a firm no-alcohol policy, as we believe you can have more fun without booze than you can with it. Anyone caught drunk on the premises will be kicked out.
- No drugs or alcohol are allowed at the LAN Party. Anything you choose to do off-site is your business (and your responsibility), but no drugs or alcohol are allowed on-site.
- No horseplay, no running around, no throwing things. This room is filled with thousands of dollars of fragile equipment. You can damage something very easily. Therefore, no wrestling matches, no affectionate tussles, no tossing disks or foosballs around. Obviously, violence of any sort will lead to instant ejection and a permanent ban.
- No speakers. Speakers create an incredible racket and drain excessive power. Headphones only, please. We will have a few headphones to loan out, but please try to bring your own.

- Keep the noise level to a minimum. Occasional shouts of glee are fine when you cap someone, but repeatedly shouting how great you are will not be tolerated. Keep it down.
- No insults. Good-natured ribbing is fine, but the moment someone gets upset, you stop immediately. Repeated violators will be ejected.
- Do not touch other people's stuff without permission. The difference between "borrowing" and "theft" can become very difficult to prove, and we don't intend to try. Also, you might break something.
- No stealing. If you are caught, we will not only ensure that your weaselly little butt never plays a game in this town again, but we will call the police to ensure that charges are pressed against you.
- No cheating. This includes bots, hacks, or anything else that isn't strictly aboveboard. Remember, this LAN party is not the American justice system; it is an enlightened tyranny. If we think that whatever you're doing is sufficiently shady, you will get booted.
- No inappropriate material. No pornography or any other offensive images should be on anyone's screens at this event. That includes screensavers and backgrounds. Minors may be present, and showing minors pornographic images is illegal. We do not want to be sued by angry parents.
- No trading of copyrighted material. Anyone caught exchanging or downloading warez, MP3s by RIAA-backed musicians, or any other copyrighted files will be booted. We don't need the hassle of getting sued.
- Keep your station clean. You are responsible for leaving your area as clean as you found it. If your area accumulates too much trash during the day, we may ask you to clean it up immediately; please do not give us flak about this.
- Outside food and drink are not permitted. Only food and drink that are purchased or provided on the premises may be consumed here.
- You may be ejected from the LAN party for breaking any of these rules or at the discretion of the LAN party hosts. You are not entitled to a refund if you are ejected for any reason.
- Have fun! We're sorry to have to start out with such an ominous set of rules, but it's necessary to ensure that the event runs smoothly. The whole point of these rules is to make sure that everyone has the best time that they possibly can - so get out there and start fraggin'!

Additional Ground Rules for BYOC* Participants in TusLAN at TusCon

*BYOC = Bring Your Own Computer

- You are responsible for running current virus scans on your computer before you place your computer on our network.
- By paying a BYOC discount membership rate, you agree to bring a computer for use in TusLAN gaming. If you do not bring a computer, you agree to buy a TusCon membership at the full rate before participating in any other TusCon activities.
- Plug in only where you are told. Doing otherwise may lead to power outages. In particular, do not plug into someone else's power strip. If you are not sure where to plug in, ask a staff member.
- You are responsible for having all appropriate hardware and software. You are expected to bring a working computer with a network card and legal copies of all relevant game software and latest patches already installed. Please do not bring a broken computer and ask us to fix it. Please do not ask us to wait for 20 minutes while you install the game and all the latest patches.
